The Philadelphia Business Journal, in conjunction with the nonprofit organization, NABCAP, performed a benchmarking process to identify the top financial advisors in the Philadelphia, Pennsylvania, area. With a long list of approximately 4,000 individual advisors and practices participating in the quantitative multiple-choice and open-response survey, Rank Premier Advisors (RPA), an independent third-party, scored the results based on 20 categories of practice management — such as customer service, accountability, risk management and transparency — as well as assets under management, fee structure, number of clients, support staff ratios and each advisor's compliance and certification records. Only 50 highest-scoring advisors and teams have been published in the September 30, 2011 issue of the Philadelphia Business Journal.
